28%

of midmarket organizations identify hardware costs as a top storage challenge, the most commonly identified response.

Midsized businesses must maximize the value of their data to stay competitive, often with a fraction of the budget of their larger enterprise counterparts. The IBM FlashSystem® 5200 is priced for needs of the midmarket, offering the latest advances in data storage and performance in a form factor optimized for midsized organizations and edge deployments with the ability to fit seamlessly into larger hybrid-cloud ecosystems.

LEARN MORE

This InstaGraphic was created by ESG on behalf of IBM